

If you'd like to decrease the wear and tear on the alley, have fewer trucks wasting diesel fuel, and reduce the noise pollution from so many trucks, you can organize your block.

We went with Berquist & Son Disposal. (You don't have to.) The owner, Jim Berquist, and his sons drive the trucks...and his wife and daughter-in-law work in the office. They dump their trash exclusively at the recovery facility. There may be some other locally owned haulers that exclusively use the recovery facility. You'll have to check around. (I can help.)

Please call me if you'd like "to talk trash." I wonder if there is someone among you who'd like to take this on and be an organizer for your stretch of the alley. I have found the process very rewarding...when neighbors work toward a common purpose. I think you will, too.

Todd Seabury-Kolod
1962 Princeton Ave
(The almost painted house.)
651.230.9589